Piggish sitter mistakes dog treats for M&M's

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column about the baby-sitter who ate everything in sight while the parents of the child were out for an incident that happened to me.

It was about seven years ago, when we had a sitter for our son. One sitter we used had the habit of cleaning out our cupboards and fridge.

Once, when we returned home, she pointed to a by-the-time-empty bowl on our kitchen counter. "Ya know," she said, in a very annoyed tone, "those M&M's were pretty stale."

My husband and I looked at each other and burst out laughing. I said, "Those were not M&M's — they were dog treats."

The girl turned white as a ghost and said nothing, but we never had any more problems with her overeating. — PAMELA HOE, BROOK, LITTLETON, COLO.

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I recently received your booklet, "What's Your Teen Doing in a Club?" and I love it!

I am 13 and am extremely good terms with my parents (which I am very proud of, as I lack with them often). Therefore, most of my questions are answered.

But I decided to get your booklet because I was curious. You re-answered many of my original questions in a different way that was actually more satisfying than my parents' answers.

Just writing to say, "Thanks, Abby." You may use my name. — NANCY RINDERKE, ALTADENA, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: You really missed the boat in your response to "Fed Up With Feeding Them," about the couple who eat her out of house and home whenever they sit for her.

If not any amount of money that, in many cases, the sitter is a ballistic who is using the time to bring out her own food. I don't see a secret to satisfy her addiction.

Instead of anger, these women

The Aces on Bridge

By BOBBY WOLFF
Daily Feature Syndicate

Today's East was impatient at trick one, and declarer was just too cooperative. Guess who won the race for tricks.

West led the heart eight and declarer trumped East with dummy's 10. East covered impulsively with the queen, but South refused the trick. What would have happened had South won?

He would have cashed a high diamond to get the best news, reducing his chances to almost nothing. Hoping for a singleton heart with West, he would have crossed with a club to dummy to finesse spades. There would be the good luck and bad. The good would be that the spade queen was outside the lead; the bad would be that West had a second heart. Down two.

What do South actually do to play? He refused to win East's queen of hearts, a moveover that would have done nothing and could only gain it. And gain it, with East's hearts neutralized and the spade queen missing. Both men aged an overtrick instead of two down.

What about East's bridge questions? He should have signalled with his nine instead of covering with his queen. After dummy's 10 led the trick, East

It's off to Seville for State of Heart

By ROBERT K. OERMAN
Staff Writer

Richard Dobson and State of the Heart will represent Nashville at the world's fair, thanks to the generosity of Music City's citizens.

More than 100 nations are gathering to celebrate the "Age of Discovery" at the 1992 Universal Exposition in Seville, Spain, but the U.S. isn't a major investor.

"We found out we had to pay our own way," says Dobson.

"The U.S. pavilion has the least amount of money in it," explains his banjo player/accompanist Steve Monick. "We're using used goods donated from a past world's fair."

But Dobson and his group were so honored to be chosen to perform that they're raising the travel money on their own.

The Nashville nightclub favorite saw a column in The Tennessean last November about musicians being needed for the U.S. exhibit.

"State called Washington D.C. and they said, 'Send your promo kit.' By and by we were accepted and we said, 'Yippee.'"

Dobson's resume includes six albums, three overseas tours and compositions recorded by Lacy J. Dalton, Carlene Carter, Dave Ed-

Getting there

Richard Dobson & State of the Heart will pass the hat for world's fair expenses at a farewell party performance at 8 p.m. today at Joe's Village Inn. Among the guest stars will be Townes Van Zandt, Joe Sen, Billy Ray Reynolds, Mickey James and Pitto Bennett.

munds, David Allan Coe, Guy Clark, Nancy Griffith, Del Reeves and Billie Jo Spears. Griffith once called the Texas-based tunesmith, "the Hemingway of country music."

During the 1989 Dobson was in the Peace Corps in Chile, so he speaks Spanish fluently.

Co-hort Monick was a founding member of the first all-female bluegrass band, the Buffalo Gals. Her Mellotron LP LP 1877 was one of the earliest examples of the "new acoustic music" fusion style.

Guitarist Mike Daulbar was the head of the faculty of Chicago's famed Old Town School of Folk Music. He has worked in a variety of Nashville bands and is Dobson's record producer.

Piddler Jim Justice is a Nashville native who was wounded on the sounds of the Grand Ole Opry.

CANCELLATION

The May 23 concert featuring jazz vocalist Bobby McFerrin conducting the Nashville Symphony at Starwood Amphitheatre has been cancelled due to poor ticket sales.

Fewer than 200 reserve seats have been sold since the concert's announcement April 11, said Steven Grit, the symphony's executive director. Organizers had hoped for sales of at least 3,000.

"It could be that Bobby McFerrin is not popular here, maybe this is not the right show, maybe Memorial Day weekend was the wrong weekend," Grit said.

school work completed, teaches him behavioral modification and gives him a place to hang out once his school day is over. "I just finished my homework and at 4:30 I'll get to go outside (at the center) and shoot basketball," Hicks said.

"We're trying to keep young African-American men off the street," Shaw said. "We can do things that the school system don't have the flexibility to do. It makes us culturally appropriate for African-American students."

One of the nicest things about attending the panels and speak-out meetings can do so for a donation to the center. Cost for the entire conference is $175 for adults and $35 for children. The speak-out sessions are:

- 10:45 a.m.-12:15 p.m. tomorrow: Students will hear a discussion on what has been done about AIDS in the black community and then break out a group to speak out on the subject.
- 4:30 p.m. tomorrow: Panel discussion will focus on what is done about AIDS.
- 4:30 p.m. Friday: Issue related to black men (education, economic health and relationships) will be discussed.
- 10:45 a.m.-11:15 p.m. the focus will be on youth issues.
