Splitsville nearing for Rhoda and Joe

By VAL ADAMS
NEW YORK — TV's Rhoda (Valerie Harper) and husband Joe (David Grob) are heading for Splitsville. The big bust will begin sometime soon after the "Rhoda" series starts its third season next fall on CBS. Eventually the role of Joe will be eliminated from the show and Rhoda will be single again.

Agreement between Rhoda and Joe will be about whether to buy a house. This will be followed by more spats and a separation, and Joe will be seen on the show incidentally. But David Grob has a contract with MTM Enterprises for the entire TV season, so the final divorce may not occur much more before contract termination. It is possible that Miss Mearns is joining the show to make up for the absence of Nancy Walker. The latter will appear on the seasonal premiere of "Rhoda" in September, and then be seen no more.

find it difficult today to keep everything together.

More than 50 attended the wedding, some of them from the Bronx and others from the West. The bride, Mrs. Mary Tyler Moore, was escorted by Murray Slaughter (Gavin MacLeod), Phyllis (Claire Tamm) and George (George Englund).

The marriage was not much in news, but MTM Enterprises, producer of the Rhoda series, and "Rhoda" producer Murray Slaughter (Gavin MacLeod), Phyllis (Claire Tamm) and George (George Englund).

The first major date of Della Reese will join the regular cast of NBC's "Chicago and the Man" next season, reports a candidate for Congress.

Concededly, she is a center. Jack Albertson, is campaign manager for his wife, Wallace Albertson, who is a Democratic committeewoman running for Congress.

Q Is the woman who plays Mona Lisa in "All My Children" related to Van Helin, the movie actor? She does resemble him. — MRS. V. Q. Frances Helin, who plays Mona, is the younger sister of the late actor Van Helin, who died in 1971, was well established as Broadway when Frances, who is 11 years younger, made her stage debut in 1948. Q Why aren't the faithful notified when and why there are changes in the daytime serials? We're almost as frustrated as the folks in the stories. E. G. B. A. No more frustrated than those of us who try to keep up. Soap producers don't like to underline changes in cast by making announcements. They seem to be victims of their favorite story, when asked to account for disappearing actors. At a general rule when a character is sent on a trip that means he or she will be back, but not necessarily at the same person. When characters are killed, it's a story trend probably because the actor wants out of the role. Although daytime serial acting has a lot more status now than it once had, it still is not considered top and the players jump to do stage, movies or nighttime TV. Q Tell me something about Tom Brokaw of NBC News, L. V. A. He's from Yankton, S.D., a 1962 graduate of the University of South Dakota. He got started in journalism in 1945. He worked on TV stations in Omaha and Atlanta and anchored the 11 p.m. newscast at KNBC-TV in Los Angeles until 1973 when he became NBC's White House reporter.
