'M*A*S*H' leads the TV pack

(AP) — The final episode of *M*A*S*H* remains the highest-rated television show since 1960, according to the latest list compiled by Nielsen Media Research. It had a 60.2 rating when it aired Feb. 28, 1983, on CBS. The 1980 Who Shot J.R.? episode of Dallas on CBS is still second on the list. Those shows are followed by the final episode of ABC's 1977 blockbuster miniseries Roots. Just for perspective, NBC's The Cosby Show, the most successful sitcom ever and the most successful prime-time network show in recent years, is only 57th on the all-time list. ■
