Awards show headliner McMurtry to play Schreiner

I'M NOT GOING to try and tell you about the 400 plus bands showed in Austin last weekend at the Southwest Music Conference. I won't even cover all the organizations that were represented. I will tell you some highlights of the conference that have a connection with this community.

First, James McMurtry was a headline act at the Annual Music Awards, and he has been in Kerrville saying the Tuesday night songwriting showcase (now defunct) that is at the Inn Pub. He has also played the Jimmie Rodgers Jubilee of the Texas Music Series at Brenner College. He will return on Thursday, March 29, to play a five-house gig at Schreiner College at 8 p.m. If you're interested in one of the best writing coming out of this state, stop up.

cluding David Grissom (Joy Ely's right hand man), but his performance gave us his own vision in words that he finds spending time in the wasteland (the ranch in Archer City).

Yes, that name McMurtry can conjure up images of Texas, images of "Looseless Love," rightfully so. This is the rising son of author Larry McMurtry.

JAMES McMURTRY

guitar like a train coming down the track — right at you! His sidkick from San Antonio, Randy Garibay, joined him after several songs to add guitar and harmony. Their duet of dueling guitars in the break of "Small Town" had the audience screaming for more.

"I'm Not From Here," a personal statement by McMurtry. KINKY FRIEDMAN (local boy makes good), hot on the heels of an exciting presentation for Easy Winders, presented the Best Music Critic award. Casey Monahan, now head of the Texas Music Commission, accepted the award, throwing up his hands in jubilation as he walked offstage.

Townes Van Zandt and Nanci Griffith also performed, both regulars for years at the Kerrville Folk Festival.

ANTONE'S, BLUES club of the year, showcased the Sir Douglas Quintet and Angie Meyers. Playing to a packed crowd, joined by Rocky Morales and the West Side Horns, this showcase moved to Kerrville last Saturday night on the Texas Heritage Live Music Series monthly showcase at Cedarberry's. Ask your friends about that packed house. It was also filmed for television in Austin.

Angie, Doug, Flaco Jimenez and Freddie Fender will go into the studio immediately to produce an album for Warner Brothers. The release of that album should spearhead a national thrust of Tejano Music. The studio's Fine Station in San Marcos, Texas, of course. Dough Sahm wouldn't have it any other way.

The new attention nationally for Tejano Music (Mexican music made in Texas) is evident in the fact that CBS just signed 5 Texas Tejano bands. More on that later. Lots more stories, no more space. Happy Trails.

Wildflower painting class planned at HCAF in April

Charlotte Curry of Kerrville will teach a "Wildflower Landscape" painting class April 17-20 at the Hill Country Arts Foundation.

The workshop will focus on painting wildflowers in landscapes. Curry will teach ways to use the ever-popular wildflower effectively as the subject of a painting or to enhance the subject of a painting. Curry will demonstrate using oil paint, however, other mediums may be used in the workshop. Tuition for Curry's class is $90 and registrations will be taken through April 5.

Other workshops scheduled for the spring at the HCAF are "Figure Design" with Pat Green, April 23-27; "Fiber Art/Stitchery" with Lucille Miller, April 28-29; "Saturday Challenge" with Marilyn Branham, May 5, 12, 19, 26; "The Art & Science of Photography" with Don Murray, May 21-26; "Landscapes on Location" with Holly Swift, May 26-June 1, and "Folk Art" with Carol Chamness, May 7-11.

Registrations are now being taken for spring and summer art workshops at the HCAF.

The 1990 HCAF summer workshop schedule is now available to the public, according to Art Director Betty Vernon. The schedules may be picked up at the gallery in HCAF's Duncan-McAulay Visual Arts Center on Highway 39 West. Out-of-town artists interested in a summer position, value and line in representational art will be taught. The instructor will be B.R. Greene of Clifton, Texas. Greene has studied art in Europe and has a degree in fine arts from the University of Texas where he was president of the Rodeo Association. Texas history themes are important in his art work. He has attended professional-level workshops at the CAA Museum and taught a 2-week painting class for young artists at the museum in 1989.

Enrollment is limited to twenty, and advance registration is recommended. Fees for the 2-day sessions are $35, or $45 for museum members. To register write P.O. Box 1716, or call 512-896-2553.

Museum organizes Western sketching workshop in April

A weekend workshop on "Sketching Western Subjects Outdoors" has been organized by the Cowboy Artists of America Museum in Kerrville.

It will be held April 7-8 and reported on April 28-29 to accommodate the number of interested enrollees. The sessions are aimed at serious beginning and intermediate painters of all ages. Only a few openings remain in each session.

Oil painting on location at Hill Country sites and area ranches to capture the freshness and spontaneity of plein air painting will be the central activity for this course. Lecture, demonstration and individual critique will be offered. Color, composition, value and line in representational art will be taught.
