Costumes Update UT Play

Colorful costumes striking a balance between the 1940s and the present day are one of the features of the production of "Born Yesterday" now being staged on the University of Texas campus.

The Garson Kanin comedy steadily popular since its initial production in 1946, is being presented through Friday night in the Drama Building Theater Room as the last of two summer drama department productions.

All the costumes for this production were created by Giva Richardson, student costume designer, under the supervision of Dr. Paul Reinhardt.

Commenting on her approach to costuming this play, Miss Richardson said, "Understanding art and fashion is most important in this play. And I have tried to use very contemporary ideas of design."

In using these contemporary ideas of design, Miss Richardson has updated the play from 1946 to 1967. The time change was not too difficult, she said, because, although society and fashion change, people stay the same.

Miss Richardson seemed to have no real trouble costuming the characters. She simply took into consideration the qualities of each and tried to dress him in such a way as to reveal these qualities externally in his clothes.

Many modern fads in dress have been introduced into the costumes to express the foibles of the different characters. But in an effort to modernize, she found that some hint of the '40s did come out in her costume designs since modern clothes do follow some of those tendencies.

The pivotal point of her designing work was the character of Billie Dawn. Billie's costumes are all done in black and white, very bold and ultra-modern. Miss Richardson chose to make Billie's clothes extreme because Billie has such a definite personality. Most of the other characters will be in muted colors to set a dramatic visual contrast.

Miss Richardson said she enjoyed doing this production in the modern trend because "we do so many period plays that it is really exciting to get to present a modern one to our audience."

Reservations for "Born Yesterday" can be made now at the Hogg Auditorium Boxoffice, open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Summer entertainment ticket holders will be admitted free, but they need to draw tickets in advance to assure a seat for the night of their choice.

One-Act Play Competition On Tonight

The first night of preliminary inter-playground drama competition gets under way at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Westenfield Park, 2000 Enfield Rd., with three one-act plays by youngsters from local playgrounds.

Brentwood Playground will present "Riders to the Sea," Patterson Players will appear in "Twilight Crane," and participants from Ramsey will stage "No, No, A Million Times No" in their bids for the annual drama championship.

Preliminary contests continue Friday at Westenfield with three more plays — "The Ugly Duckling" from Perry, "The Sand Box" from Wooten and "The Freak Out" from Gillis.

Finalists will be chosen to perform their one-act dramas at Zilker Hillside Theater Monday night, when awards will be given for best play and its director, best actor and actress and members of an all-star cast.

The public is invited free to both preliminaries and final presentations. All three begin at 7:30 p.m.
