

Hometown Funnyman—Comedian Jim Varney has been added to the bill of Vanderbilt Children's Hospital Spectacular on Sunday, Sept. 15, at 8 p.m. in the Grand Ole Opry House. Varney, famous nationwide in television commercials as Ernest P. Worrell (right), joins Floyd Cramer, Dinah Shore, Boots Randolph, and the McGuire Sisters in the benefit concert associated with the Floyd Cramer Golf Classic. Tickets ($10, $8) are available at all TicketMaster outlets.

Galloway New Soap Doc

NEW YORK—Veteran leading man Don Galloway, perhaps best known for his eight seasons as Sgt. Brown on the "Ironsides" series with Raymond Burr, has joined the cast of ABC's "General Hospital" as Dr. Buzz Stryker, a member of the hospital staff. Galloway, last seen on the big screen in the Oscar-nominated

"The Big Chill," is a familiar face via numerous television commercials. His role in "General Hospital" marks a reunion for Galloway and the show's producer, Gloria Monty. Years ago in New York the actor appeared in "The Secret Storm," which Monty directed.
